We currently have a top 1% of wealth distribution. All of the most wealthy people in that 1% have more wealth than the sum of the other 99%. #MacroSW

Kaley @kaleybond01 9 hours ago
@JimmySW Today wealth isn't being distributed fairly, in accordance with inflation. The rich get richer, and the workers supporting and doing all the handiwork are struggling to make ends meet #macrosw

Tatiana Perilla @TatianaPerill18 9 hours ago
@JimmySW I recently read The Broken Ladder and learned that the rich are getting richer while the poor are staying just as poor. This isn't a new trend either. #MacroSW

RT @NiloSW: @JimmySW we're so excited #macrosw https://t.co/cwht5OLFJ8

A1. The wealthiest 1% of Americans own 40% of the country's total wealth. In my personal opinion, a lot of that wealth inequality is not only class, but also age. Younger people tend to have a lot of debt and not much savings, meaning they have negative wealth. #macrosw

A1 #macrosw https://t.co/hBa0CEcZ1t

Karen here outside Boston, social worker & #MacroSW founder, and my brain currently has too many tabs open. https://t.co/rVNgVFqFH2

Q1). The gap in wealth is getting bigger meaning the wealth is not being distributed equally. “The rich are getting richer and the poor are getting poorer”. Inequality has grown out of proportion. #MacroSW

A1: wealth is distributed unevenly! It’s happening because the ‘fat cats’ are taking it. I see that they are not putting their money back into the economy. And there is no longer a large middle class when there needs to be!! #MacroSW
Christopher Thomas @cdt133

carlos moreno @yUhatin4
@JimmySW A1: The distribution of wealth is mainly going to the top 1 percent of a population in America, it's happening because wealth leads to more influence over our political leaders. It's happening because many people are satisfied with the status quo #MacroSW
